SESSION SUMMARIES

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Krishna Pendyala | 2 Days at a Time: Being Consciously Effective

With the global environment's ever-increasing demand on quality and pace at which we need to conduct business, organizations and individuals simply do not have the luxury of continuing to learn by trial and error. This old-school way can no longer get the results that leaders are looking for in the moment, or long term. Instead they must seek new methods for accelerating the learning curve. Additionally, under the weight of increasing competition, the room for error and the tolerance for bad service are greatly diminished.

BREAKOUT SESSION

Bryce Roberts | Speaking with Integrity: Aligning Voice and Truth

Do we have the courage to tell the truth? This workshop will refine participant's ability to access deeper internal insight, promote understanding of what may be hindering showing up with greater authenticity, and develop competency in speaking with courage when it matters the most.

George Kral | Too Quick

In the line of duty, a single moment's decision can have a life-changing or life-ending result. Toledo Police Chief George Kral sets the scene from when he was a rookie on the force in 1991 and is faced with a decision an officer dreads to make but is forced to make: to shoot or be shot. What happened at the end of this fateful day in his first year on the job still shakes him today.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Traci Brown | Body Language Confidential

Traci Brown is trained in the body language of deception detection alongside our country's top law enforcement. NBC, CBS and Fox have asked her expert opinion to reveal secrets hidden in plain sight regarding what clients may be keeping from you that are impacting your bottom line. Through her fast paced, interactive programs, Traci coaches on lie, fraud and identity theft detection skills that she's used to get to the truth in billion dollar business deals, crimes and politics. She teaches the skills to uncover these secrets hidden in plain view and how to hear "Yes!" more easily and more often during interviews, meetings, networking events, negotiations, and even in conversations with your kids and spouse.

PANEL DISCUSSION

Rhonda Sewell & Steve Zirkel | What do you wish the 30-year-old you knew then that you know now?

If you compared your resume from 20 years from now with your current resume, what do you think will be the most surprising to you? Hear about their successes and challenges as they've navigated life, career and community. Listen to the unexpected paths that got them to where they are today. They will also explain how themes discussed by the other conference speakers apply to their lives.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Dr. Jacqueline Stavros | The Power of a Conversation

Jackie Stavros works with others to discover their strengths, identify opportunities and create a plan with meaningful results for positive change. The heart of her work is using the Appreciative Inquiry (AI), one of the most popular approaches to positive change that involves bringing out the best in people, their organization, and their communities to fuel conversations worth having that produce meaningful engagement and results. She is internationally recognized for her creation of SOAR, a positive approach to strategic thinking, planning, and leading that focuses on strengths, opportunities, aspirations and results based on strategic conversations.
